

*Margaret Sanger and Planned Parenthood

One of the most devoted followers of Theosophy was Margaret Sanger; founder of Planned Parenthood. Sanger was a eugenicist and a white-supremacist. According to Canadian columnist Michael Coren:

“Margaret Sanger believed in the existence of so-called ‘dygenic races’ or ‘human weeds’. There unfortunates were blacks, Hispanics, Amerinds, fundamentalist [Christians], and Catholics as well as Slaves, Latins, and Jews. Sanger though such people were a ‘menace to civilization’. They simply had to ‘stop breeding’. Her magazine, The Birth Control Review, favoured immigration restrictions based upon race and published a glowing review of a book called The Rising Tide of Color Against White World Supremacy; a fascist rant particularly popular with the later National Socialists in Germany.” (The Toronto Sun, Jan. 7th, 1999)

Sanger was a follower of Francis Galton, a Gnostic and Humanist who believed that inferior races and people should cease to breed or “be considered enemies of the State” and justly exterminated (Aristotle to Zoos, p.87). The American and British Eugenics Societies were founded on Galton’s writings. Sanger became a member of the American Eugenics Society in 1930, and a member of the International Congress of Eugenics in 1932. In her own publication she wrote:

“Like the advocates for birth control, the eugenicists are seeking to assist the race toward the elimination of the unfit.” (Birth Control Review, Feb., 1919, p.11)

Francis Galton, the ‘father’ of eugenics, wrote that inferior races and people should be allowed to live as long as they didn’t create too much burden upon society:

“But if these continued to procreate children inferior in moral, intellectual and physical qualities, it is easy to believe the time may come when such persons would be considered enemies of the State, and to have forfeited all claims to kindness.” (Aristotle to Zoos, p.87)

Sanger believed that such things as feeding the poor and mentally or physically defective were useless and counter-productive to the human race. She wrote:

“Those least fit to carry on the race are increasing most rapidly...Funds that should be used to raise the standard of civilization are diverted to maintenance of those who should have never have been born.” (Margaret Sanger, p 57).

The motto of the American Birth Control League was 'More from the fit, less from the unfit'. Sanger wrote:

"I wish to reiterate that all objections to birth control can be met unanswerably except one, that the human race will degenerate if the superior races and the superior-classes among civilized races will curtail the number of their offspring while inferior races and inferior races in civilized countries will continue their high birthrate. This must be prevented by all means...." (Birth Control Review, Sept. 1931, p.268)

Sanger's Birth Control Review contained various articles from her fellow eugenicists; including Bernard Stacks, M.D., who wrote:

"We must get rid of the inferior colored races: the Blacks, the Yellow and the Red races must be exterminated...The white race then may proceed as follows: Let the Christians exterminate all Jews and Moslems, then the Protestants kill all Catholics, then let the Ku Klux Klan kill everybody except the 100% [Nordic types]; then let the Nordic race with blond hair and blue eyes kill off all the dark complexioned..." (Birth Control Review, Sept, 1924, p.269)

Radical eugenicists wanted all inferior races utterly exterminated, and even wanted inferior whites to suffer the same fate. Moderate eugenicists were also white-racists, but wanted the reduction of 'inferior races' and inferior types (mentally retarded, genetically defective) in the white race to come about through birth control, abortion, sterilization, or amalgamation with the 'superior' white race; not outright extermination. Yet the Birth Control Review published articles even by radical eugenicists without comment or condemnation.

Even the moderate eugenicists have little good to say about black folks. Newell Sims wrote:

"It is any wonder, therefore, that the responsible white community looks upon the average Negro as being irresponsible, without pride or self-respect when he supplies more than his quota of dependents and delinquents?" (Birth Control Review, June 1931, p.188)

*Sanger and the Eugenecists

In 1918 Sanger founded the American Birth Control League; the first American organization to advocate birth control and abortion and eugenics in the U.S. For her Board of Directors Sanger included Theodore Lothrop Stoddard; author of The Rising Tide of Color Against White World

Supremacy (1920), as well as The Revolt Against Civilization: the Menace of the Under-Man (1922) and A Gallery of Jewish Types (1918): all favorites of the Nazi Party in Germany. The Nazis referred to those they exterminated as kummerling; the German translation of Stoddard's "under-man".

Historian Barry Mehler writes of Stoddard:

"He was one of the most outspoken advocates of Nordic [Northern European racial] supremacy and an admirer of Adolf Hitler." (A History of the American Eugenics Society, 1921-1940, p.428)

Historian Richard K. Tucker writes:

"Lothrop Stoddard, a widely read author (Scientific Humanism, The Rising Tide of Color) was a Klan officer in Massachusetts and a ready source of many of the Klan's racial beliefs." (The Dragon and the Cross, p.6)

Sanger herself had lectured on eugenics before the Ku Klux Klan of Silver Lake, New Jersey; at the invitation of the Woman's Branch of the KKK (Margaret Sanger: Pioneer of the Future, p.192).

Stoddard was in charge of publicity for the 2nd International Council of Eugenics in New York City, and he was on the Advisory Board of the American Eugenics Society from 1923 to 1935. Researcher John Cavanaugh-O'Keefe has written:

"In the United States shortly after the turn of the century, the American Journal of Eugenics advertised itself by noting that it was 'formerly known as Lucifer the Light Bearer'." (Introduction to Eugenics, p.1 online)

Another person Sanger chose for her Board of Directors for the American Birth Control League was Ernst Rudin; father of the Nazi eugenics program; a program which eventually justified the wholesale murder of millions of innocent 'non-Aryan' human beings.

Sanger rejected the God of the Bible; preferring to worship, like so many other Gnostics, her own Self (Ego). Sanger's biographer Emily Taft Douglas writes:

"She found downright unhealthy the priestly rejection of physical joys, while approving Nietzsche's 'Overman' who affirmed all phases of life and used the full powers of a trained mind, with passions controlled, but not deadened. It was better, she wrote, to develop the God within oneself than to worship ‘at the shrine of other egos.’” (Margaret Sanger: Pioneer of the Future, p.59)

Today, the Humanists and the American educational system, as well as the American Media, present Margaret Sanger as a great Feminist heroine; one who selflessly fought for the ‘rights of all women everywhere’ for their reproduction rights (read: abortion).

On the Internet, W.A.R. (White Aryan Resistance) founder and leader Tom Metzger wrote What We Believe As White Racists:

“Very little abortion should be tolerated, among our White race, while at the same time, abortion and birth control should be promoted as a powerful weapon, in the limitation of non-white birth.

Covertly [secretly] invest into non-White areas, invest in ghetto abortion clinics. Help to raise money for free abortions, in primarily non-white areas.” (What We Believe As White Racists, p.1 online)

Some believe that it isn’t a coincidence that the great majority of Planned Parenthood clinics are in ghetto neighborhoods. The connection between Gnosticism, eugenics, the Klan, and today’s ‘black friendly’ Humanism can no longer be denied. One of the greatest advocates for birth-control, abortion, and other ‘Feminist’ issues in England was Annie Beasant; who became the head of Theosophy’s initiated cadre: the Arcane School.
